

If transactions for the licensing of computer software meet all of the criteria provided in Section 130.1935(a)(1), neither the transfer of the software or the subsequent software updates will be subject to Retailers' Occupation Tax. (This is a GIL).

Dear Xxxxx:

This letter is in response to your letter dated June 28, 2002. The nature of your letter and the information you have provided require that we respond with a General Information Letter, which is designed to provide general information, is not a statement of Department policy and is not binding on the Department. See 2 Ill. Adm. Code 1200.120(b) and (c), which can be found on the Department's website at www.revenue.state.il.us/Laws/regs/part1200/.

In your letter, you have stated and made inquiry as follows:

You were kind enough to respond to our July 2001 survey of state sales and use tax on software. Survey results appeared in PUBLICATION. PUBLICATION has included this annually updated, state-by-state summary of sales and use tax on software since 1984.

It will be greatly appreciated if you would respond to this year's survey as well: For that purpose, enclosed is the portion of Appendix D pertaining to your state. Please check it for accuracy, mark it up with corrections as necessary, and return it to me. If appropriate, add comments or cross references to relevant regulations, rules, or recent court decision. Copies of such regulations, rules, or decisions would be helpful, too.

Please return the enclosed portion of Appendix D even if you have made no changes.

Responses to the survey will be included in the 2003 Edition of PUBLICATION, with a disclaimer to the effect that responses have been edited. If you would like to receive the 2003 Edition of Appendix D, write 'Send Appendix D' on this letter, along with the name and address of the person who should receive it, and return the letter to me.

Thank you for your cooperation.

Review of your attachment did not reveal any suggested changes. The following is the current discussion of sales of computer software that the Department is sending to taxpayer.

86 Ill. Adm. Code 130.1935, Computer Software, has been recently amended. See enclosed revised copy of Section 130.1935. Generally, sales of "canned" computer software are taxable retail sales in Illinois. However, if the computer software consists of custom computer programs, then the sales of such software may not be taxable retail sales. See Section 130.1935(c).

Custom computer programs or software are prepared to the special order of the customer. The selection of pre-written or canned programs assembled by vendors into software packages does not constitute custom software unless real and substantial changes are made to the programs or creation of program interfacing logic. See Section 130.1935(c)(3).

If transactions for the licensing of computer software meet all of the criteria provided in Section 130.1935(a)(1), neither the transfer of the software or the subsequent software updates will be subject to Retailers' Occupation Tax. A license of software is not a taxable retail sale if:

- A) It is evidenced by a written agreement signed by the licensor and the customer;
- B) It restricts the customer's duplication and use of the software;
- C) It prohibits the customer from licensing, sublicensing or transferring the software to a third party (except to a related party) without the permission and continued control of the licensor;
- D) The licensor has a policy of providing another copy at minimal or no charge if the customer loses or damages the software, or permitting the licensee to make and keep an archival copy, and such policy is either stated in the license agreement, supported by the licensor's books and records, or supported by a notarized statement made under penalties of perjury by the licensor; and
- E) The customer must destroy or return all copies of the software to the licensor at the end of the license period. This provision is deemed to be met, in the case of a perpetual license, without being set forth in the license agreement.

In general, maintenance agreements that cover computer software and hardware are treated the same as maintenance agreements for other types of tangible personal property. The taxability of maintenance agreements is dependent upon whether the charge for the agreement is included in the selling price of tangible personal property. If the charge for a maintenance agreement is included in the selling price of tangible personal property, that charge is part of the gross receipts of the retail transaction and is subject to Retailers' Occupation Tax liability. No tax is incurred on the maintenance services or parts when the repair or servicing is completed.

If maintenance agreements are sold separately from tangible personal property, the sale of the agreement is not a taxable transaction. However, when maintenance services or parts are provided under the maintenance agreement, the company providing the maintenance or repair will be acting as a service provider under the Service Occupation Tax Act. The Service Occupation Tax Act provides that when a service provider enters into an agreement to provide maintenance services for a particular piece of equipment for a stated period of time at a predetermined fee, the service provider incurs Use Tax based upon its cost price of tangible personal property transferred to the customer incident to the completion of the maintenance service. See 86 Ill. Adm. Code 140.301(b)(3), enclosed.

Charges for updates of canned software are fully taxable pursuant to Section 130.1935. If the updates qualify as custom software under Section 130.1935(c), they may not be taxable. But, if maintenance agreements provide for updates of canned software, and the charges for those updates are not separately stated and taxed, then the whole agreement would be taxable as sales of canned software.

Assuming that the services provided, such as installation, phone support, training, and seminars, do not require the transfer of tangible personal property to the recipients of those services, charges for such services are exempt if they are separately stated from the selling price of canned software. See Section 130.1935(b). If computer software training or other support services are provided in conjunction with a sale of custom computer software or a license of computer software, the charges for that training are not subject to tax.

I hope this information is helpful. The Department of Revenue maintains a website, which can be accessed at www.revenue.state.il.us. If you have further questions related to the Illinois sales tax laws, please contact the Department's Taxpayer Information Division at (217) 782-3336.

If you are not under audit and you wish to obtain a binding Private Letter Ruling regarding your factual situation, please submit all of the information set out in items 1 through 8 of Section 1200.110(b).

Very truly yours,

Melanie A. Jarvis
